PLANNING THE 3-SEASON VEGETABLE GARDEN – Thursday, January 14th

In the Piedmont we can harvest something edible at least 10 months of the year with good planning and preparation. Let's talk about some simple ways to get the most from your personal gardening space.

PROPER PRUNING PREVENTS POOR PLANT PERFORMANCE – Tuesday, January 26th

We'll discuss the tools, techniques, and especially the timing for pruning ornamental small trees and shrubs.

PLEASE NOTE: this program does not cover the specific pruning needs of fruit trees.

PLANNING AND GROWING SUSTAINABLE COOL SEASON LAWNS – Thursday, February 11th

Using the best growing practices for your lawn saves you time and money, and also reduces environmental impact. Learn how to establish a healthy stand of grass and take care of it year round.

GROWING GREAT TOMATOES: TOP TIPS FOR PIEDMONT GARDENERS, part 1 - Tuesday, February 23rd

Now is the perfect time to start preparing for great tomatoes! Proven tips include selecting the right varieties and preparing soil and/or containers, so you can start your season ready for success.

Please also plan to join us for part 2 on April 8th (see below).

CONTAINER EDIBLES: GROWING HERBS AND VEGETABLES IN POTS – Thursday, March 11th

If you're short on space, sun, or time - you can still have a very productive food garden in containers. We'll go over simple steps to best results: the right location, good timing, an easy plan, and a little tending.

CULINARY HERBS – Tuesday, March 23rd

You can eat better with home grown culinary herbs from your garden or containers! Learn the needs and characteristics of the plants to have fun and success growing the herbs you want to use in your kitchen.

GROWING GREAT TOMATOES: TOP TIPS FOR PIEDMONT GARDENERS, part 2 – Thursday, April 8th

This program is all about the steps and strategies for planting, caring for, and harvesting your best tomato crop – in garden beds or even in containers. Get ready for tomato sandwiches all summer long!

FLOWER GARDENING FUN-DAMENTALS – Tuesday, April 20th

Annuals and perennials are the foundation of any flower garden, large or small. Choosing and using the right plants for your space will get you growing beautiful blooms in flower beds or containers.
